THE WISCONSIN DEMOCRACY.

There yet appears to be no fixed policy among the Democrats in this State regarding finances or anything else. They are between wind and water, and are drifting on political sea without sail or rudder. They are after power, they want office, but in what direction to move, or how to move, they are at a loss. A political party was never more unsettled and shiftless in principles, or more completely disorganized in its make-up, than the Democracy of Wisconsin. In some parts of the State, they want to endorse Greenbackism where Greenbackism will pay the best; in other parts they are inclined to favor the Republican idea of sound money for the workingman, because it is more popular and is likely to win; but in other parts of Wisconsin they are puzzled as to which way to turn, and are bewildered by the divided sentiment in their own ranks. For instance, in the First District, the Democrats are perplexed as to the question of Congressmen. Some of the leaders would endorse anything, even Mr. Parker, to defeat Mr. Williams. They don't care for principle, for platform, for party integrity, or for a uniform policy. They want votes, and if Greenbackism is the most effective plaster for the drawing process, they will put it on; but if the other side of the question should appear to be more effective, they would not hesitate to adopt it. This is the condition of things in the First District. The Convention to nominate a candidate for Congress meets next Wednesday, the 21st. Some of those who have not forgotten the old-time hard money doctrine of the Democratic party, will hardly chase after Mr. Parker in his Congressional race, but there are many others in the party who would yield to any sentiment, however inflammatory, in order to beat the Republicans. Principles are nothing when the anything-to-beat-Grant policy enters in the campaign. So, in this District, it is impossible to tell which way the cat will jump, so far as the action of the Democrats are concerned. In the other Districts, they have taken no decided action. Bouck, however, in the Sixth, refused to "pool the issues" with the Greenbackers, and in that case, we may expect to see the Democrats withstanding the temptations to join forces with the inflationists. In the Second they are divided. In the Third the question is perplexing, a portion of the party being desirous to endorse King in the hope that they might defeat Hazleton. In the Fourth, there are half a dozen Democratic candidates, but there is a strong sentiment in favor of uniting with the Greenbackers. Bragg, in the Fifth is a candidate for re-nomination, but in case he is nominated, the question of finances will be left open. It is presumable that in the Seventh and Eighth, the Democrats will be swallowed by the Greenbackers. In the Seventh such a coalition can not in the least effect Judge Humphrey, as his majority is beyond the touch of Greenbackers and Democrats; and in the Eighth, where the vote is liable to be close, the combined strength of the two parties may possibly defeat Mr. Pound. So the Democrats of Wisconsin are on the fence, looking out for opportunities, and they will get on one side or the other only when there is a little political capital to be made.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL CASE.

It is not a difficult matter at this time to make a fair statement of the status of the Whitewater Normal School trouble. Prof. Phelps' rejoinder to the letter of Mr. Chandler, both of recent date, makes it clear that nothing short of a full publication of the specific details will in any wise satisfy him; and as these details can only be obtained by a rigorous investigation, and in as much as such action has been provided for by the Board and will certainly be fully carried out early in September when the school re-assembles, we submit that the Professor should wait and abide by the action he himself has invoked. His voluminous and bitter attacks upon the Chairman of the Investigating Committee and the two men against whom the charges were preferred, and in fact upon the whole Board who are rightfully and legally the final judges in the matter, are unwarrantable, to use no harsher term.

Prof. Phelps preferred charges against two professors of long and approved service, and the Board acted upon them as soon as they could legally. "One of the people," understood to be himself, asked a long list of very pointed questions and the Board at once answered them fully; more were promised but have never been asked yet; then the official correspondence between the Chairman of the Investigating Committee, and himself, was published, in which the Professor declared and argued the unfitness of the Committee and Board to do the very thing he had demanded previously, and asked for an impossible outside Commission to examine and adjudicate the matter; and finally we have Mr. Chandler's statement of the causes of the Professor's removal and the rejoinder above alluded to. This is the case in a nutshell. Mr. Chandler's statement unquestionably shows that the Board dealt handsomely by the Professor in offering him leave of absence and twelve hundred and fifty dollars bonus with which to find his way down and out of his place and into some other situation, and his rejoinder

YELLOW FEVER.

The Scourge Still on the Increase in New Orleans and Grenada.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Aug. 15.—The new cases reported during the past twenty-four hours number 98; deaths, 17. Of the deaths reported to-day seven were children under five years, one was eight, one was 14, and another child, age not given.

The Times editorially says: "Some remarkable features that characterized the fever in its incipency continue to characterize it now in what may be regarded as its matured and developed form. Fully 60 per cent of death is of foreigners or unaccustomed people, and fully 75 per cent of the remainder is of children. It is very rarely that we notice the death of an adult born here, or who had lived here any length of time, and of whom it can be said that he or she received even moderate attention. Instances of this sort constitute an exception to a very general rule. Indeed, leaving out stranger and those persons whose habits of life render them especially liable to malarial influences, the sickness seems to be devoting itself especially to children; and the fact that, as time goes on, this feature becomes more conspicuous, justifies the theory that the fever may be looked on as having declared itself. It is true that a good many native adults have been affected, but the attack, in nearly every instance, has been light and manageable, and but for the scare would hardly have excited comment. So far, it is distinctly the children's fever."

GRENADA, Miss., Aug. 15.—Last night was a fearful one for the yellow fever victims. The death rate for the last twenty-four hours was the largest since its appearance. Ten or twelve new cases are reported. There was great excitement during the day, many flying from the town. The population is now reduced to not over 300 whites. Total deaths, 45. The number of cases down is estimated at 160. The New Orleans physicians pronounce it the most virulent type. The distress is fearful to contemplate.

GARY, Ill., Aug. 15.—A very important and decided action was taken by the Cario Board of Health this morning, that is, that after to-morrow (Monday) no boats or trains from the South, or passengers, baggage, or freight will be allowed to land or be brought into the city until further notice. This effectively shuts off all freight and passenger trains on the Iron Mountain, and Mississippi Central Railroads. The Iron Mountain Road has already discontinued its trains. All persons from the South are also prohibited from entering the city or passing through it. No cases of yellow fever have as yet appeared in this city.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

A Sad and Fatal Accident to Miss Medora Clark, the Well-known Wisconsin Poetess.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 15.—Information has been received here from Chicago for the far West, of the death of one of their number, while taking mountain views near Cheyenne, W. T., Miss Medora Clark, the popular author and poet, was riding down a declivity, when her horse stumbled and fell, throwing the lady to the ground, with such violence that she was fatally injured. She was en route for Fort Steele, W. T., to visit her sister, Mrs. Julia Clark Chase, whose husband, Lieutenant Chase, U. S. A., is stationed at that post.

The sad intelligence has caused the deepest sorrow to a wide circle of friends in this city.

A yield per acre of sixteen to twenty-five bushels is reported. All is of poor quality, however, and will grade below No. 1.

BIGAMY.

A Milwaukee Man in Jail for Having Three Wives.

MILWAUKEE, August 15.—It was developed by a postal card from Chicago this morning that Phil A. Downing, now in jail here subject to prosecution for bigamy by the Widows Emily A. Rich, of Bay City, Michigan, and Mrs. Kirby, of Rochester, New York, has a wife and a family of six children living at Baldwin, Iowa. He confesses he married the Widow Kirby 1877, and the widow in May last. Of his family in Baldwin, the oldest is 15 years of age.

MOODY AND SANKEY.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 15.—D. L. Moody, the evangelist, has rented a house in this city, and will remain with his family until about the first of October. He desires to rest and recuperate. He will hold meetings during the winter in churches and public halls. Sankey is going to Europe.

SOUNDLY INDORSED.

The Press on the Re-Nomination of Mr. Williams—Some Worthy Compliments Liberally Bestowed.

From the Chicago Journal.
Hon. Charles G. Williams, the present popular member of Congress, from the First District of Wisconsin, was yesterday nominated for re-election by the Republican Convention, at Elkhorn. The nomination is honorable to all concerned, and his re-election seems to be assured.

From the Waukesha Freeman.
As anticipated, Hon. Charles G. Williams was re-nominated for Congress by the convention held at Elkhorn last Thursday. Mr. Williams is so well known to our readers, and his course, while representing his district, has been so satisfactory to his constituents, that but little is necessary to be said at this time regarding his candidacy. That he will receive an enthusiastic and potent support from the Republicans of his district is not to be doubted, and he will probably be elected by his usual majority of four or five thousand.

From the Chicago Tribune.
The Republicans of the First Congressional District of Wisconsin did a most commendable thing on Tuesday when they re-nominated the Hon. Charles G. Williams, of Janesville, as their candidate. Mr. Williams has already served three terms in Congress, and as he represents an unusually intelligent constituency, among whom are to be found many able and capable gentlemen, the compliment of his continuance in Congress is all the more significant. But, as marked as it is, it is well deserved. Mr. Williams did not get into Congress in the first place by accident or by any fortuitous arrangement of circumstances depending upon deadlocks in conventions growing out of a multiplicity of candidates, but won his way there by his native energy, fine ability, and high personal character. Educated for the law, he practiced his profession with that modesty and fidelity that were always his leading characteristics, until the people of Rock county transferred him to the State Senate, where he served them faithfully and well for four years. The six years that he has already spent in Washington as the Representative of the First District have just had the seal of approbation put upon them by the action of the Republican Convention, and the interpretation of this fourth nomination means, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

From the State Journal.
The Republican Congressional Convention held at Elkhorn on the 13th, passed in nomination for re-election to Congress, Hon. Charles G. Williams of Rock. The 330 whites. The ballot, Williams 27 to Littlejohn 5. That action of the Convention was wise, admits of little or no doubt. Mr. Williams is now serving on his third term in Congress, and has made an honorable record in the House. The unanimity with which he was put in nomination for the fourth term shows that his people appreciate the value of his services and are not disposed to lose them. The fact that Mr. Williams holds a place on the Committee of Foreign Relations, one of the most important in Congress, is evidence that he is recognized as a man of superior ability and acquirements. He is an eloquent speaker, and has made himself felt in the halls of Congress. He was selected in May last to deliver the address on the occasion of the decoration of the soldiers' graves at Arlington, an honor only conferred on a very superior speaker; and he gave excellent satisfaction to the immense crowd that assembled on that occasion. He is a good lawyer and an industrious worker, so that his services are of importance in the law-making branch of the Government. Mr. Williams is a native of New York, forty-nine years of age and of robust health. The people of the First District will see that he is re-elected by an increased majority over any former election.

From the Evening Wisconsin.
As was foreshadowed in these columns, the Republican Congressional Convention of the First District, which met at Elkhorn on the 13th instant, re-nominated Hon. Charles G. Williams for Congress. The convention for a platform wisely adopted that recently put forth by the State Central Committee. Upon being invited before the Convention, Mr. Williams spoke at some length, accepting the nomination and platform, discussing the political questions of the day, and promising a continuance of his efforts faithfully to discharge his official duties. Mr. Williams has made a fair record in Congress, and there are few men in the district who would represent it more worthily or with more ability. His election is assured, but Republicans in that district should not on that account, relax any of their efforts to bring out the full party vote, for besides Congressmen, they virtually have to elect a United States Senator—that is they elect the legislator whose duty it is to elect a Senator, and no legislative district should be permitted to be lost to the party through carelessness.

BRIEFLETS.

—Cooler.
—Plenty of base-ball.
—The Light Guards expect seventy new guns to-morrow.
—Prayer-meetings were lightly attended, last evening.
—Four tramps were run in yesterday. They were not engaged in any overt acts, but looked and acted listless.

—Two brothers living between here and Evansville, broke the monotony of their ride home yesterday afternoon, by fighting in the wagon, as it rolled along the street.
—Justice Balch is again at the Shimal shooting scrape to-day. A host of witnesses appear on both sides, and the testimony is as contradictory as it is lengthy.

—Peter Fowler, of Center, was so full of booze yesterday afternoon that Marshal Keating and Constable Taylor run him in. He paid a dollar and costs and went on his way, but not rejoicing.

—A man named Ross living out toward Emerald Grove, was so full of beer yesterday that he had no sooner got inside the city limits than he was picked up and run in, charged with drunkenness. He was fined $1 and costs.

—Prof. S. S. Rockwood, of the White-water Normal School, was in the city to-day visiting relatives and friends. The Professor is one of the best educators of that institution, and besides that he is an accomplished literary scholar.

—The Northern Wisconsin Agricultural and Mechanical Association will hold its annual fair at Oshkosh, commencing September 23d and continuing five days. All desiring further information can address the Secretary, R. D. Torrey, Oshkosh.

—Mr. George W. Wheeler, of Worcester, Massachusetts, was a delegate to the Supreme Council. He is an old resident of that thrifty city, and was elected city treasurer twenty-one consecutive years, and only got rid of the office by resigning. He is President of one of the leading banks of that city.

—William Bradley, of Fulton, came into town to see the circus, but didn't see it. He saw the inside of Sheriff Colley's headquarters though. His drunk this time didn't count, but he paid an old fine amounting with costs to about $7, which he had neglected to settle before, and was then released.

—The funeral of Mrs. Anna Dockstadter took place this afternoon at the family residence on Franklin Street, Rev. T. P. Sawin officiating. Mrs. Dockstadter leaves a husband, Mr. Fred Dockstadter, and two children, one an infant. Her remains were taken to Shopiere for interment, where one child is now buried.

—Dave Kennon, the wild son of a respectable farmer living at Newark, was found guilty the other day, of decidedly unseemly conduct in the presence of a young girl in a store at Beloit. He was brought into jail yesterday to work out a fine of $40 for his forgetfulness of decency. His only excuse was that he was a little full of gin at the time.

—Mr. James Reilly, of New York, is in the city, and made a pleasant call at the Gazette yesterday. He is the proprietor of the largest and best show printing house in the country, and among amusement circles he is as well known as any man living. His establishment turns out the best work which can be produced, and is consequently always crowded with orders. Mr. Reilly is every inch a gentleman, and highly popular among all who know him. This is his first visit here and he expresses himself as happily surprised with the city and with the surrounding country.

—Palmyra is fast becoming a favorite resort for our citizens. It is a quiet, pretty place, provided with everything necessary for a jolly picnic, fishing or boating party. It is easy of access, there being a train going there every morning and returning every evening. Several from here intend going there to-morrow. They will have a chance Sunday to hear Rev. H. W. Thomas and Rev. Sumner Ellis, of Chicago, two noted divines, and will find Palmyra a pleasant retreat. The Bidwell House there is being kept up in first-class shape, and everything necessary for the comfort and pleasure of the guests is there to be found. In fact it is becoming known far and near, and on its book appear daily the names of representative citizens from all sections.

THE WEATHER.

The thermometer at 7 o'clock this morning stood at 62 degrees above and at 2 o'clock at 76 degrees above. Clear. One year ago to-day at corresponding hours the thermometer stood at 63 and 85 degrees above.

The indications are, for the upper lake region and upper Mississippi valley, colder, partly cloudy weather, occasional rain, followed by clearing weather, stationary or rising barometer, winds mostly northwesterly.

FISHING WITH DYNAMITE.

A man named McIntyre, living at Neilsville, Clark county, in this state, met with a strange accident the other day, the particulars of which we learn from Dr. Palmer, who was called thither to attend to the injured man. It appears that McIntyre became enthusiastic over the manner in which the fishermen on the Pacific coast gathered in the flumes by hurling nitroglycerine torpedoes into their midst, and he threw aside the line and net and prepared similar torpedoes filled with dynamite. The first time he tried this contrivance it worked finely, and with a very little trouble he gathered in a large number of fishes stunned and wounded by the explosion. The next time he tried it he was not so successful however. Just as he was hurling the torpedo with the lighted fuse, out into a shoal of fishes, it exploded a short distance from him, and covered him with flesh wounds besides giving him a terrible shock. The dynamite was inclosed in tin, and pieces of the tin went tearing through the flesh of his arm and body, inflicting a great many wounds. It is thought that with a little care and good nursing he will recover. He will not probably be in a hurry to blow up fish again.

COSTLY BUTTER KNIVES.

Yesterday afternoon there was quite a commotion in the vicinity of the Corn Exchange. An old, old dodge was tried by a veteran in the business named Gleason hailing from Chicago, who stood up in a buggy, and began selling finger rings at ten cents each. After taking in the money, he remarked that the money was his, and he could do as he pleased with it. He could throw it in the river, he could burn it, he could shove it in his pocket, but he preferred for the sake of advertising his goods, to return the money to the buyers. He accordingly passed back the ten cent pieces. He then sold some shirt-studs at two shillings a set, and went through the same talk, and returned the money to those who had passed it up. He gradually worked the crowd up until he sold several pressed-tin butter-knives which looked like silver, though he carefully avoided stating that they were silver. He asked $5 each for these and readily found a number of purchasers, who expected that he would do as before and return the money, and they would thus get the knives for nothing. A capper passed up a $10 bill, and after getting his butter-knives was handed back two $5 bills. Others rushed forward with their $5, and when Gleason had got as many bills as he could, he reiterated the remark that the money was his and he could do with it as he pleased, and this time it pleased him to put it into his pocket. He then drove off, and entered Carter's livery stable where he had hired the rig. He handed out a $5, from which to take the livery hire, and as one of the men connected with the stable had invested $5 in one of the knives, Mr. Carter did not propose to give any change back.

The fellow kicked lustily, and a little stir was caused. A dozen or more other victims came rushing into the stable, demanding back their money, and doubtless Gleason would have got a thumping, if it had not been that Marshal Keating took the fellow under his protection and locked him up in jail. Gleason finally consented to hand over the $5 to the livery-man and to also pay back to the others, who invested in the game.

A man named Henry Schofield and a young fellow named Willie Ludlugh, of Broadhead, are the only ones besides, who have thus far applied for and received their $5 bills, the rest of those who were inveigled into the scheme evidently preferring to keep mum, and lose their money. Gleason was released, and there seemed nothing on which he could be held. The same game was worked in Waupun last week, and the fellow gained $120. Not half of that amount was taken in here. It is an old and shrewd dodge, and it is a great wonder that the people will take the bait after it has been so thoroughly exposed in the papers.

BASE BALL.

The Alerts of Milwaukee Defeat the Janesville Mutuals 3 to 2. Waterloo for the Providence and Milwaukee Clubs.

The Milwaukee Alerts yesterday came into the field in much better shape than the day before, having become rested from their long ride. The game was a fine one throughout. The Mutuals were defeated by 3 to 2 only seven innings being played, in accordance with the arrangement made before the game opened. The following shows the game by innings:

Innings	1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Alerts	0 0 2 0 0 3
Mutuals	0 0 1 0 0 1 2
Base Hits—Alerts 3, Mutuals 5.
Errors—Mutuals 15, Alerts 7.

GAMES ELSEWHERE.

The Providence Club suffered a Waterloo yesterday afternoon at the hands of the Chicagoans, the score being: Chicago 17, Providence 3. The Chicagoans got 20 base hits off of Ward while there were 12 base hits on the other side.

The Cincinnatians defeated the Milwaukee 4 to 2. Base hits Cincinnati 18, Milwaukee 4.

The Daytonians defeated the Dubuques yesterday 6 to 4 in thirteen innings.

The Manchesterites defeated the Springfield 3 to 1 yesterday.

FOREPAUGH'S FAUSE.

Forepaugh's great show paused long enough in Janesville to give two exhibitions yesterday, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening. There were fair audiences at both exhibitions. The menagerie particularly attracted attention, it being one of the finest collections of animals to be seen anywhere and at any time.

The spectators wandered from cage to cage in perfect amazement at the number of really rare animals there exhibited. The sea lion and the hippopotamus particularly attracted attention. The circus tent proper was also made attractive by arctic feasts and by displays of horsemanship.

The athletic performances, and especially the feats of the contortionist were particularly fine. The performing elephants called forth hearty applause, it being a literal fulfillment of the promises made on the flaming posters. As a whole the show gave great satisfaction. Forepaugh would do well, however, to make some changes. He ought to clear out the man who has a stand upon the ground and sells tickets at sixty cents, while any one by going two rods further, to the regular ticket wagon can get them for fifty cents. He should also quit first selling tickets to the concert at twenty-five cents, and then dropping on the price to ten cents. Such little dodges though frequently practiced tend to hurt the popularity of any showman.

Forepaugh's tents are immense, and he has spared nothing to make the entertainments complete, and he will doubtless continue to draw big houses, wherever he appears. The reports spread about a crowd of thieves following his show seems to be false as far as this city is concerned, as the utmost order prevailed both on and off the grounds.

PICKING POCKETS.

Yesterday afternoon Miss Mattie Blanchard had her pocket picked while standing near the Court House park, watching the parade. Her purse contained $3, and has not been heard from since.

TEMPLARS' TALK.

An Enthusiastic Rally at Lappin's Hall Last Evening.

Closing Work of the Supreme Council.

There was a rousing temperance meeting at Lappin's hall last evening, under the auspices of the Templars of Honor. The hall was well-filled, and the audience was an enthusiastic one. Mr. E. L. Dimock presided, and Hon. J. B. Casaday offered the opening and welcoming address as follows:

Mr. Chairman and Brother Templars of America: Adam was lame. He was the monarch of all he surveyed, but his monarchy was excessively weak, and his empire exceedingly narrow. Since that distant period of time, the thoughts, sentiments and powers of man, have increased in volume, force and intensity, until a sentence written in silence, to-night, may shake thrones and principalities in distant parts of the earth to-morrow.

Standing on this globe of ours, surrounded by 1,400 millions of people, the efforts of a single individual, laboring for a selfish purpose, must, necessarily, prove insignificant, if not wholly abortive.

Standing on the same spot, working in harmony with aggregated masses, actuated by a broad, generous and unselfish purpose, and for the common good, and the benefit of mankind, may become, in a sense, the representative of all, and hence wield the influence and power of all.

Such, in a word, is the noble purpose in organizing, and is the noble purpose in maintaining the grand order here represented. It aims at nothing less, than taking man in his low estate, and enabling him to climb, if he will, that invisible, but real ladder, the foot of which rests on the solid rock of Truth, and the top of which reaches to the entrance of that Crystal Temple of Honor, to be found among the many mansions in the house of God, where golden crowns are kept for all those who have the self control, the will, the power, and the courage to ascend the ladder.

With such purposes and aims we meet to-night, to exchange greetings and hearty congratulations. In doing so, you may be assured that this little Janesville Temple with 20 members feels highly honored by the presence of so many delegates and Templars from such distant parts of the country, distinguished by those sterling qualities, notions of our order, virtue, purity, fidelity and perseverance.

Comrades of our own intimacies, we the more heartily welcome you, one and all, with hands of friendship and hearts of love, to this little temple, western town. Around you, Most Worthy Templar, the head of our Order in North America, and your successor in office, we gather to-night, as disciples of Temperance, anxious to acquire that wisdom, which may enable us to conquer to the Grand Lodge of the Order of the Temple, and which would be sure to commend itself to the common-sense of all reasonable men.

To you, the Grand Lodge of the Order of the Temple, we present the young Templars of this State, not only this Crystal Temple No. 22, but 10,000 Templars in Wisconsin look for instruction, in that practical wisdom and judiciousness, which has crowned your efforts with such wonderful success.

From you, delegates, here assembled, representing the host of Templars scattered through North America, we expect a dispensation which will inspire broader plans and better work, along our entire lines.

As you return to your respective homes, say, if you will, to the brethren, bound together by the mystic tie of fraternal love, and stimulated by the wine of our temperance covenant, that, however widely we may differ on other questions, yet in the work of our order, we have but one doctrine, one faith, one hope and baptism—all working and inspiring in each Templar a fidelity of purpose, and a force of character, which like the firmness of the young Prophet of Babylon, and the Recklessness of old, can withstand the solicitations of debauched kings, and melancholy priests.

Building upon these foundations, our Temple will be sure to stand firm against the storms of life, and the wrecks of time; and within its walls and under its roof, the poor and the rich, the ignorant and the learned, the weak and the strong, the sorrowing and the jubilant, will meet to be comforted, to be cheered, to be inspired, to be redeemed, to be saved, first, themselves, then, their neighbors—and finally the whole human race.

To this end, may our Order, with its banner ever unfurled and sustained, and its gradually lengthening columns, steadily advance onward and upward to a most glorious and universal welcome.

Mr. J. N. Stearns, of New York, followed. He was an earnest, effective speaker, and he eagerly attacked the idea of temperance men ever being allowed to use any alcoholic drinks for medical purposes. He thought the pledges should be so strong as to prevent their use for any purpose. He termed this loophole the backdoor, through which many slipped out. He scored the physicians who prescribe alcoholic medicines and tonics, and showed that often this was the start given which made men drunkards. It was but little trouble to get men into the Temple, but the hard work came in trying to keep them in. Several striking illustrations and parables were given, which called forth enthusiastic applause.

Mr. Thomas Keats, of Texas, spoke of the differences between Templars here and in Texas. When he first went into the Templar work there, he tried to get some of the ministers to help him, but they refused because they were afraid their congregations wouldn't like to have them. There were four classes of society in Texas, beginning with the aristocracy and ending with "the scrubs." In Texas the Templars belonged to "the scrubs." They had picked out their very best scrub and sent him up here to represent them. He also spoke of the influence of women, and urged them to help on the good work.

One of his acquaintances, in New Orleans, who was a tippler but not a drunkard, was in the habit occasionally of asking his wife to mix him his morning toddy for him. The wife soon got into the habit of mixing a little toddy for herself, and in a few years became so much of a drunkard, that her husband became frenzied at her constantly beastly condition, and finally brained her with an ax, and being tried and convicted was hung.

Mr. W. H. Norris, of Green Bay, in his remarks took up the inconsistency of churches by using fermented wine at the sacramental table. He also spoke against allowing any loopholes of escape for those who were pledged as temperance men. His little girl had signed a pledge at the request of her Sunday School teacher, but had crossed out the cider clause, because she loved apple-juice. He told her one day that he liked whisky as well as she liked cider, and asked her what she would think of a Temple of Honor man who would sign the pledge excepting as regarded whisky. She at once saw the inconsistency of her cider reservation.

Mr. E. H. Clapp, of Massachusetts, was the next speaker. He was a good story teller, and opened his remarks by telling of a boy whose father wanted him to take music lessons, though the boy had little talent in that way. Every time the boy would come back from a music lesson, the father would ask him how he was getting along. The boy kept saying that all was well, but finally said that the teacher acted queerly, and every time he heard the boy sing would exclaim, "Oh, Lord what have I ever done to deserve this?" The speaker was afraid that before he had spoken much the audience would feel like saying the same as the music teacher. They didn't feel so though, and I evidently enjoyed his remarks, judging by the enthusiastic applause.

Mr. A. H. Semberow gave one of the most elegant and eloquent addresses of the evening. He pleaded with the mothers to help save the boys, and spoke touchingly of the pledge which he made to his mother as she lay upon her dying bed, and how that pledge had proved a shield to him, and how years afterward stood by her grave he thanked God that he had such a mother.

Colonel J. A. Watrous, of Fond du Lac, was the last speaker. He briefly thanked the audience for their presence and attention, and in behalf of the Supreme Council thanked the citizens of Janesville and others who had shown them courtesies.

The Finishing Touches.
The Supreme Council decided to finish its work last evening instead of delaying another day, thus enabling such members, as desired to leave on to-day's trains. By working long and late, the Council completed its work. The only business of particular interest was the appointment of two special committees as follows:

On basis of representation—S. H. Wallace, H. A. Bowen, G. H. Hick, J. M. Gibson, R. B. Rice.

On Junior Ritual—A. H. Lembower, J. A. Watrous, John Gormley.

The Council passed resolutions of thanks to the Wisconsin Templars, to the railroad companies, to the retiring officers, and to the press, both local and associated, for courtesies shown them.

Adjournment was then taken until the next annual meeting.

The session has been a harmonious one, and has done much to increase the popularity and standing of the order. The class of delegates which was here present was such as to give character to the movement, and does away with all ideas of there being any "wishy-washy" child's play about the matter.

HOUSE BREAKERS.

Last evening the residence of James Mendenhall, corner of West Bluff and Pearl streets, was entered by burglars who ransacked the house from one end to the other, and helped themselves to such clothing and trinkets as they chose. Mr. Mendenhall was attending prayer-meeting at the time and his wife was away from home so that they had a clear field, and improved it accordingly. The exact loss cannot be learned until Mrs. Mendenhall's return, as it is difficult for the husband to tell how much of her clothing has been stolen. The thieves took his best suit, and some other articles of value.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Last Sunday at the Wisconsin Industrial School for Boys, at the close of the religious service, Superintendent Putnam announced the death of Mrs. Hendrickson, and spoke briefly and appropriately of the virtues of the deceased and her noble work when matron of that institution. The following resolutions were then unanimously adopted by the boys:

WHEREAS, an overruling power has suddenly removed by death from the midst of her family and friends, while yet only in the prime of life, Mrs. Olive D. Hendrickson, it seems proper that we should manifest to the bereaved family the high estimate entertained of her services while acting as Matron of the Wisconsin Industrial School for Boys, therefore

Resolved, That in the death of Mrs. Hendrickson we are called to mourn the loss of one of our best and truest friends—a friend who in her lifetime, and while acting as Matron of this institution was ever ready to aid and cheer us with good counsel in health, and minister to our wants in the time of sickness and distress.

Resolved, That we tender to the family of our deceased friend our sincere condolence and heartfelt sympathy in this hour of affliction.

Resolved, That our Superintendent be requested to transmit a copy of these resolutions to the bereaved family, and cause the same to be published.
